Dated: October 27, 2010

AREA RIVERS: Even with recent shots of rain, rivers remain very low. The Kankakee is extremely low and fishing is fair, though walleye reports are improving. The Fox has been slow too, according to Ken Gortowski. The Illinois has a good sauger bite, though keepers are few. As the IWT tournament showed, trolling three-ways is favored. Guide Jay Angel said best was in 10-14 feet, especially around Senachwine.

CHAIN O’LAKES AREA: Triangle reported crappie are the top bite; work in or around the channel mouths. Walleye are decent early and late around bridges or main lake points. For bluegill, start in 8 feet. Muskie are fair.

LAKEFRONT: Action and effort have been spotty. Salmon are being seen in the harbors, but a lot of them are looking scruffy. SALMON SNAGGING: Open spots on the Illinois lakefront are the inner and outer harbors at Jackson Park; Lincoln Park Lagoon from the Fullerton Avenue bridge to the south end of the lagoon; the Winnetka power plant discharge area, and Waukegan Harbor (in North Harbor basin only).

NORTHWEST INDIANA: Mik-Lurch reported a few salmon in the marinas on spawn, a few fish far up the streams, and a few bass and crappie in the corn channel at Wolf Lake.

SHABBONA LAKE: Lakeside reported some hybrids on the dam fish; some largemouth on the road bed with crawlers; a few crappie in the cribs; some catfish on dying weed lines; lots of smaller perch, and a few muskie.
